

Elizabeth Beil

Director of Fund Development

Elizabeth Beil serves as the Director of Fund Development for Better Tomorrows. In her role, Elizabeth engages diverse funding opportunities to ensure staff has the resources necessary to fulfill Better Tomorrows' mission. Elizabeth collaborates with local and national staff to develop a strong financial platform upon which to build Better Tomorrows' programs and services.

With fifteen years of prior experience in domestic and international non-profit organizations, Elizabeth most recently served for five years as President and CEO of the Epilepsy Foundation Eastern Pennsylvania, where she introduced initiatives to grow event fundraising, expand programming for young adults and introduced services for Hispanic individuals living with epilepsy.

Ms. Beil has always chosen mission-focused work: from her service in the Peace Corps soon after graduating from college, to building sustainable and self-sufficient schools in Guatemala and her fundraising and advocacy work for two young girls with a rare genetic disease, to her support for individuals and families living with epilepsy, Elizabeth brings a wide variety of experience to the senior leadership team at Better Tomorrows.

Elizabeth received a BA in Psychology from Bryn Mawr College and is fluent in Spanish.
